The Congo Rescue

IT WILL BE A revealing and interesting experience for the Western nations to make note of just how many of the emergent African republics decide to follow the official Russian line of condemning the U.S.-Belgian Stanleyville rescue operation as "an imperialist operation carried out by white colonialist

Despite the fact that Congo Premier Moise Tshombe personally gave permission for Belgian paratroopers to be landed by American aircraft in a bid to save the lives of some 800 white hostages in the rebel-held Stanleyville area, the Soviet Union has been quick to express its view through its favorite mouthpiece "Izvestia" that the move was nothing less than a "criminal action of aggression" performed by Western powers anxious to enslave the Congolese people.

Such a monstrous interpretation of the operation will undoubtedly be accepted by more than a few of the surrounding African independencies. It cannot, for instance, be overlooked that most of the important African leaders in Central and East Africa chose to sit on the fence during the crisis rather than use whatever influence they might possess to mediate with the Congo rebels on behalf of the white hostages.

Even Canada's self-styled African affairs expert Mr. Robert Thompson, in his dual role of Socred leader and Liberal diplomat, failed to impress upon his highly-placed Abyssinian and Kenyan friends the need for some direct and forceful intercession in the name of humanity. Perhaps the greatest tragedy of the whole ugly affair was the unwillingness of the African people themselves to help save a few hundred white people who, in the main, were only in Africa to help the

Had these victims with white skins been armed mercenaries of an outside power, slave traders, exploiters or despoilers of the African, there might have been a glimmer of reason for the bloodthirsty attitude of the Communist-inspired rebels. But the hostages were none of these. They were missionaries, teachers, doctors and diplomats serving in The Congo with their families whose only purpose was to help the Congolese people.

The role the new African countries have played in the Stanleyville affair has done little to justify the faith many Western governments had in them. Certainly with few exceptions they have far to go before they can be accepted by the world as responsible

Out of Place

IN A TORONTO suburb, a group of New Democrats is experimentally trying to bring partisan politics into the municipal realm, putting up candidates wearing the party label and professing a party program. Both the NDP and the Liberals, according to The Canadian Press, are looking on with closs interest; the Liberal national director, Keith Davey, is quested as saying he personally believes party politics at the municipal level would be of great benefit in producing better candidates, an improved voting turnout, more public interest and a better idea of where candidates stand on issues.

If the Toronto New Democrats win, hence, it ossibly may be anticipated that Liberal as well as NDP candidates as such will be seeking civic office on widening scale. But we are not nearly as sure as Mr. Davey that this would be a good thing.

Better candidates? Why? Is a man ambitious to climb the party ladder more aptly qualified to serve than one whose interest is confined to solving local

A better turnout at elections? Perhaps-if party money were poured into the campaigning on the same as in previncial and federal elections, thus incidentally making it difficult for non-partisans, no matter their merit, to compete.

A better idea of where candidates stand on issues? Do we take the federal and provincial fields as shining examples of promise and performance?

And on the other side of the coin, there would be to municipal disadvantage the further divisiveness in councils which would be the inevitable result of party politics in local administration. Civic boards are not adaptable to conducting business in governmentand-opposition style; one can well imagine the interminable political manoeuvring for instance if the mayor or reeve were a member of the minority party in the local government.

Some councils, indeed, are already more than sufficiently split into factions to the detriment of the conduct of community affairs, without adding party conflict to their deliberations.

Name Carvers

INTEREST SEEMS to be growing in Vancouver in the novel idea of citizens saving the old Shaughnessy golf course from subdivision into residential lots by buying it up in small plots at $10 a square The purchasers' names would be recorded in the civic archives for a grateful posterity.

The ratepayers of the city proper declined to pay the $2,500,000 price asked by the owner of the golf course, the Canadian Pacific Railway, but perhaps in the whole metropolitan area there may be enough residents interested in preserving the midtown recreational greenery—and achieving personal credit for doing so-to make the plan work.

Whether successful or not on such an ambitious scale and with time quickly running out, the scheme nas human nature in its favor. For the world is full of name carvers at heart, even if constrained for the most part from actually leaving their marks on desks, benches, signposts and what have you.

Perhaps, for instance, thought should already be given to applying it to saving for future generations some of the scenic viewpoints in most imminent danger of private development in the Victoria region. with a little niche in history accorded by name to each of the purchasers of pleasure for their neighbors and those who come later.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. - The father of Jean Harlow filed a $3,000,000 damage suit Monday against the author, publisher and distributors of a book about the movie actress, who died in 1937.

The petition filed by Dr. Montcinir Carpentier of Kansas City says the book destroys his right of privacy, holds him up to humiliation, diagrace and ridicule, exposes him to public con-tempt, and blackens the memory of Jean Harlow.

Named as defendants are Random House Inc., Bernard Gels and Associates and the Dell Publishing Company, all of New York; Irving Shulman of Los Angeles, the author, and the strucky Book Shop Inc the Kansas City agent

Buddhist Not Involved

Nam's most influential Buddhist leader dissociated himself from Premier Tran Van Huong's troubled government Tuesday out indicated he will not actively oppose it. The statement by Rev. Thich Tam Chau came on the eve of U.S. Ambassador Maxwell Taylor's departure for Washington for a review of U.S. policy in South Viet Nam.

Taylor is believed to favor bombings of selected targets in neighboring Laos and Communist North Viet Nam, a question likely to come up in the 450,000 Boxes discussions.

But he also is known to have

OUTDOORS

The federal fisheries department is expected to follow its drastic cutbacks on sports and commercial winter grilse fishing by spot closures of herring seining in problem areas where nets catch too many griise and salmon.

We have heard more commendation than condemnation about proposals to cutback the sports salmon catch aggregate limit to four, from eight (only four of which can be salmon three pounds or more! and to stop commercial fishing in the winter months from Oct. 1 to April 14 from Campbell River to Beechey Head and commercial trolling from Nov. 1 to April 14 in Beechey Head to Port Renfrew waters.

But the putter (part-timers in small boats who hold down a regular job and commercial fish in their spare time) fishermen and the bona-fide winter trollers have expressed concern at prospects of their fishing being stopped while herring catch numerous grilse in their nets

At the moment commercial fishermen and putters off Victoria to Sooke waters are catching some tiny springs and numerous grilse which they have to shake off. (Federal fisheries officers last season made an on-the-spot check on mortality of these shakers.)

They see the herring fleet fishing nearby, and at nights know that while the seiners catch herring they will also catch grilse and salmon They seem prepared to take a cutback in their own fishing time for the conservation of salmon, but they can't understand why herring fishermen should be allowed to take even more (they suspect) small fish than the commercial trollers kill.

Idea of the proposed cutbacks is to cut down on the harvest of salmon at the gillse stage so they may be taken later in the season at the heavier and more mature stage. The fisheries department is very much concerned about the grilse and salmon catch in herring seine nets . so are the herring fishermen who are mainly salmon fishermen first and herring fishermen next.

There have been cutbacks and there will be more. The federal fisheries department with the fisheries research hoard of Canada is on its second year of a study of the number of adult salmon and grilse in herring purse

This year the study was started in the summer and it is still under way. Observers on a round-the-clock basis check the deliveries of seiners to the Imperial Cannery at Steveston, and they count the number of grilse and salmon in the catches.

A fleet of about 80 seine hoats take about 100,000 tons of herring annually from the coastal waters of southern B.C. From Sept. 2 to Dec. 2, 1963, more than 24,000 tons of herring were searched and 3,655 adult salmon and 7,091 grilse were found in the landings.

There were definite periods when the proportion of salmon to herring was up and the proportions varied somewhat from fishing area to fishing area.

Fisheries Director Rod Hourston assures us that result of the investigations will undoubtedly be a continued close watch on herring runs with spot closures in areas where and when grilse and salmon concentration is high. Two years ago, in the fall of 1962, a closure on herring fishing was placed in Becher Bay area, just when the pink salmon smolts were heading out to sea. When those pinks returned in the summer and fall of 1963 they came with that fabulous run of Sooke to Becher Bay pinks (humpies)

This fall fisheries officials have kept a careful watch on the pink smolts heading to sea from that big run. They have followed the western shores of the Southern Gulf Islands and herring fishermen didn't get at them Next summer and fall we can look for another fabulous pink salmon run Trollers in the Sidney to Beechey Head Area 19 waters and the Beechey Head to Bonilla Point Area 20 waters will give up quite a fishery under the new proposals, mostly the small tinies (springs under 12 pounds), but also some of them big springs. We saw a 30-pounder taken off Secretary Island

Last season in Area 19, commercial trollers took 853 springs and 342 coho in October, 3,159 springs and 14 coho in November, 1,770 springs in December, 390 springs in January, 164 springs in February, 235 springs in March

Last season (1963) in Area 20 commercial trollers took 400 springs, 959 coho in October, 2,847 springs, 30 coho in. November, 754 springs in December, 222 springs in January. 333 springs in February and 475 springs in March. In October gillnetters took 43,913 coho, 453 springs and seiners 2,449 coho, and in the same month gillnetters took 9,658 chums, 229 steelhead and seiners 832 chums. But Area 17 around Nanaimo, where the smaller fish predominate, saw much bigger catches by commercial trollers, 5,885 springs, 789 coho in October, 3,779 springs, in November, 2.085 springs in December. springs in January, 1,841 springs in February, 341 springs in

The proposed sports eatch limit should provide the main maybe as many as 15,000 to 20,000 grilse will be conserved to provide sport as full-sized salmon. The four-fish limit will still provide plenty of sport, but will also cut back an unnecessary kill of immature fish.

Garden Notes

Lilacs Worth Trouble

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Several times in this column I have had occasion to mention my grandmother's home in the country where, as a small boy, I was taken to visit every summer.

One feature which I remember well was a huge old lilac bush planted close enough to the back door so the intoxicating fragrance of its blooms would waft through screen door and into grandma's summer kitchen - a screen porch complete with oil stove tacked on to the kitchen proper.

Because of these memory associations, I think that if I were planting up a garden, the very first shrub I would select would be a lilac. True, lliace possess certain disadvantages. They make a rather leggy and ungainly bush in time which is out of proportion in a tiny city garden.

Nor can I recommend the lilac as a labor-saving shrub, for if neglect-ed, a lilac can look like death warmed over when covered by ugly brown seed pods, and taking off the spent blooms is a miserable, monotonous and time-consuming chore.

Suckers, too, are a problem. Some kinds send up a regular forest of shoots, and these have to be removed the hard way — digging down and twisting the sucker free root. In spite of these black marks.

without a couple of lilacs in it

Lilacs can be planted any time after their leaves have fallen, from November right through until the buds are swelling in early spring.

While the best time is soon after leaf-fall while the ground is still warm, the plant isn't fussy, and I have moved a pretty big bush successfully in January, when I had to skim off a two-inch crust of frozen soil before I could dig over the plant-

This plant likes a fair amount of lime in the soil, preferably in a longlasting form such as pulverized limestone rock, about three cupfuls per square vard scattered over the root-

Unlike hydrated lime, the pulverized limestone may be dug in at the same time as old rotted mature without and serious loss of nutrients.

It is important to plant your new lilac fairly deeply. If you buy your bush from a nurseryman, the soil mark on its stems will indicate its previous depth; in replanting, set it in between two and three inches

Your new lilac may or may not bloom next spring, depending on its age and size and how well it likes the home you provide for it.

It will almost certainly bloom in 1966, but somewhat sparingly and be until the following spring that the plant really gets into its stride; the really worthwhile garden subjects are almost always a bit slow in reaching their peak of production. Now about varieties: If you are hungry for the real old fashioned hlac fragrance, plant Souvenir de Louis Spacth which bears enormous trusses of port-wine colored single flowers, or Madame Lemoine, a fine double-flowered white lilac, or Belle de Nancy in satin pink.

These will probably cost between $2.50 and $5, depending on the age and size of the plant.

The newer hybrids will have bigger trusses, bigger individual florets and perhaps more vivid colors, but they may be a little disappointing in the fragrance department.

Some of the best of these were bred by Miss Isabelle Preston of Ottawa, and include Hiawatha in a lilac rose shade; Coral, a scintillating pink; Redwine, a fine purple-red, and Royalty, in violet-purple.

A few years ago there was quite a hoo-ha over a new yellow lilac from England called Primrose. I couldn't wait to get one of these, and it IS a pretty thing, but don't fool yourself it isn't yellow.

Mine bloomed in a pale cream shade and with a rather strange frag-rance which is not particularly pleas-

Tories Wait For Fulton

By IAN STREET

Progressive Conservatives in the Victoria federal riding have postponed their annual meeting, tentatively set for Nov. 30, until mid-January so that provincial leader E. Davie Fulton can attend, it was disclosed here Tuesday.

Officials of the local association, however, denied that they were "shopping around for a candidate."

President Alex H. Reed, asked to comment on speculation that Mr. Fulton may run in Victoria the next few months, said:

Ferry Comox Queen slides down ways

Colonist Marine Reporter A new era began Tuesday

for the Island communities and Powell River with the launching of the highways department ferry Comox Queen at Victoria Machinery Depot an era which promises to provide even more ferry work for Victoria shipyard workers.

The $600,000 ferry will revive an old transportation link between Comox and Powell River which has not been serviced regularly for more than a decade.

The 150-foot vessel will go into service next spring, making two round trips daily. Her capacity is 200 passengers and from 25 to 30 cars.

Government and civic representatives were among the guests when Mrs. R. D. Ellis, wife of the chairman of the Comox village commission, broke a bottle of champagne on the prow of the neat little

No Secret As it slid into the water there were three cheers and a tiger for the vessel with the black hull and the white and cream superstructure.

Shipwrights working on the nearby B.C. government ferry Queen of Burnaby momentar-ily laid down their tools to join in the cheering. Adjacent ships added their whistles to the general rejoicing.

"We will be happy to build another the same size when it is needed," said Highways Minister Gaglardi, "and as many more as are needed." "Another will be built much

The new ferry will ply the 20-mile stretch of water between Village Bay near Comox and Westview near Powell River.

"This ferry will do 14 knots," Mr. Gaglardi said. "The RCMP will never bother it at that speed."

Stanleyville Assault

BRUSSELS (UPI)-The Bel gian paratroop drop on Stanley ville was probably one of the most widely - known "military secrets" in recent history. At a time when the possibility of saving the Stanleyville hos tages by a paratroop raid was being publicly discussed in Belgium, the paratroopers them selves were given home leave. NO SECRET

The arrival last Tuesday of 12 iant American C130s at Kleine Brogel military sirfield could not be kept secret in tiny Belgium when the planes' landing circuit covers about half the province of Limbourg.

The paratroopers embarked for destinations as far apart as Norway and Greece in the C130s according to reports then, but there was free speculation in the Belgian press that "Operation Stanleyville" was under way.

31 of 32 Canadians Spared?

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hope strengthened today that most of the 32 Canadians re-ported in the strife-torn Stanleyville area of The Congo had escaped the massacre staged by Congolese rebels.

One Canadian, Rev. Hector McMillan, 49, of Avonmore. Ont., a father of six boys and a member of the Unevangelized Fields Mission, was reported to have been among those slain by rebel guns on the streets of Stanleyville as Belgian para-troopers liberated the rebel capital Tuesday.

Eighteen other Canadians, ineluding all 12 children said to have been in the area, were reported safe.

BLIGHT WOUND

Eleven of these were reported to have been flown from Stanleyville to Leopoldville, includ-ing Mr. McMillan's 51-year-old wife, Ione, and her six sons, ranging in age from 10 to 17. One of the boys, not identified. was said to have been sightly wounded.

The other seven were in one Mennonite family-Dr. Melvin Loewen, 38, his 41-year-old wife Elfrieda and their five children of Steinbach, Man. The external affairs department in Ottawa said the Laewens were safe in Stanleyville Eleven of those reported safe are members of the Unevangelized Fields Mission. Reports on their escape came through the UFM in Toronto from the group's North American headquarters in Philadelphia. The UFM is an inter-denominational Catholic nuns who are members today. the teaching order of Les Filles de la Sugesse (Daughters of Wisdom), could not be determined because of fragmentary reports from The Congo.

Rev. George Thomas of Toronto. Canadian secretary of the UFM, said that although the exact whereabouts of four members of his mission group-Rev and Mrs. Chester Burk of Calgary and Mr. and Mrs. David Grant of Saint John, N.B. was not known, they were reported to have escaped the massacre NOTHING HEARD Nothing has been heard of the seven nuns. Mother Cyril. superior of the order's convent in Toronto, said Tuesday she had not heard from the nuns for some months and that any word on them likely would come from the order's house in Ottawa or the external affairs department. Also unreported were Miss Muriel Harman. 64, of Victoria. B.C and Mrs. Hulda Schroeder Brown, a native of Waldheim, Sask. They are members of the Worldwide Evangelization Cru-refuge in Colorado.

Hope strengthened today that most of the 32 Canadians reported in the strife-torn Stanleyville area of The Congo had escaped the massacre staged by

One Canadian, Rev. Hector McMillan, 49, of Avonmore. Ont. a father of six boys and a member of the Unevangelized Fields Mission, was reported to have been among those slain by rebel guns on the streets of Stanleyville as Belgian paratroopers liberated the capital Tuesday.

Eighteen other Canadians, ineluding all 12 children said to have been in the area, were reported safe.

BLIGHT WOUND

Eleven of these were reported to have been flown from Stanleyville to Leopoldville, including Mr. McMillan's 51-year-old wife, Ione, and her six sons, ranging in age from 10 to 17. One of the boys, not identified. was said to have been sightly

Western observers here be lieve Mao's reference to "imperialists" invading China indicates Peking's concern that an attack on North Viet Nam could spread to China

They believe Peking is convinced that the U.S. will carry the war from South Viet Nam into the north. This uneasiness was apparent even before the U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, Maxwell D. Taylor, said 18, .19 Sunday that U.S. air raids on 12, 15 Communist bases and supply lines in North Vict Nam and Laos could contribute to victory over the guerrillas in South Vie Nam.

OPPOSITION PROMISES NEW SHOCKS

OTTAWA (CP) -- Shock piled on shock in the Commons Tuesday in the chapter-by-chapter unfolding of connections between federal ministerial aides and alleged attempted bribery and coercion in a Montreal nar cotics case.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker held the government in quivering wonder with a prom ise of more disclosures, and Guy Rouleau, Liberal MP for Mont real Dollard, resigned as parliamentary secretary to Prime
